

Tolerance Minnesota and the University of Minnesota Human Rights Center will partner to present a two-day workshop on Close the Gap documentary series and curriculum resources to foster dialogue on ways to recognize and eliminate race, class, and place disparities in our schools and communities.

Twin Cities Public Television Producer, Daniel Bergin, will offer his insights on the stories in the Close the Gap series, and provide additional resources for educators.

Concerned about race, class, or place disparities in your schools or communities?

Interested to learn more?

Need resources to start or continue a dialogue with your students, colleagues or community members?

Save the Dates!

June 14 & 15, 2010

WORKSHOP:

Close the Gap: Teaching for Action to Eliminate Race, Class, and Place Disparities

Who should attend:

Teachers, cultural liaisons, school administrators, after-school program coordinators, and other educators working with youth in grades 8-12.

For more information about the workshop please contact Natela Jordan at: 612-625-2857 or home@umn.edu; or Laura Zelle at Laura@toleranceminnesota.org

